Context

As part of its activities, the Association for Sustainable Health Development - A2DS is organizing the First International Congress on Sustainable Health Development [CI2DS 2020]. This event will be held from 4 to 5 June 2020 in Marrakesh Morocco, under the theme "from Strategy to Action".

This meeting aims to stimulate discussions on global strategies, driven by public authorities, in favour of sustainable development in the health sector and their implementation. In addition, this Congress aims to become a key event for stakeholders in health sustainability and innovation to network and collaborate and position Morocco as the regional hub for the future.

This inaugural event will feature the participation of several experts from around the world to present sustainable development strategies and share examples of successful implementation from their institutions. In addition, the event will offer participants the opportunity to expand their professional network, forge links and establish partnerships with national and international actors. This event is intended for all health professionals and anyone interested in sustainable development careers in health.

Objectives

- Introduce international and national strategies
- Enhance best practices for sustainable development in health
- Identify opportunities for collaboration and partnership
- Share initiatives and successful best practices

Topics

The two day Congress will address several themes related to sustainable development and innovation in health.

About the Congress

The CI2DS - 2020 Congress will be the largest international gathering of leaders in the field of environment and sustainable development in health. From experts from renowned public and private organizations, to civil society representatives, to health care sustainability professionals, the Congress welcomes participants from a variety of specialties and sectors to attend.

This is an opportunity to examine, on the one hand, the global strategies for sustainable development and, on the other hand, the actions that must be taken to ensure that its strategies are implemented in the medium and long term. It will also be an opportunity to share exemplary initiatives and projects in this field.

A committee will be dedicated to studying these projects to award prizes to those with the greatest added value in terms of health sustainability.

An exhibition space will also be made available for both organizations and companies wishing to present their know-how, products and service.
